About the Authors

Douglas White (Ph.D., University of Minnesota, 1969. drwhite@uci.edu). Professor of Anthropology at the University of California, Irvine, where he is also Graduate Director of Social Networks, member of the Institute for Mathematical Behavioral Sciences, and co-coordinator of the MBS Ph.D. Program in Social Dynamics and Evolution. He received his PhD in 1969 and advanced to Associate Professor at the University of Pittsburgh (1967-79) where he co-directed the Cross-Cultural Cumulative Coding Center and took leave (1971-73) to co-direct the National Language Study project for the Irish Republic. He is a past President of the Social Science Computing Association, recipient of the A. von Humboldt distinguished senior scientist prize in Germany, and on the External Faculties of the Santa Fe Institute and the Ecole des Hautes Etudes in Paris. He is currently conducting modeling work on large-scale longitudinal network studies of human populations, industrial organization, and the network dynamics of civilizations. He collaborates on long-term social research and time-series historical research in Europe, Latin America, and Africa.

Ulla Johansen (Ph.D., Hamburg University, 1954. Ulla.Johansen@uni-koeln.de). After a long career working in museums and universities, she is now retired from her position as Director and Professor of the Institute of Ethnology at the University of Cologne. Her current work is on the ethnography of Turkish-speaking peoples and of Estonians, and on shamanism and other fields of the comparative study of religion. Her books and articles deal also with ethnohistory. She is an honorary member of the German Anthropological Association (Deutsche Gesellschaft für Völkerkunde) and President of the international Societas Uralo-Altaica.

Andrey Korotayev is Head and Professor of the “Anthropology of the East” Program, Russian State University for the Humanities, Moscow. He received his PhD from Manchester University, and Doctor of Sciences degree from the Russian Academy of Sciences. He is the author of Ancient Yemen (Oxford University Press, 1995), Pre-Islamic Yemen (Harrassowitz Verlag, 1996) and Social Evolution (Nauka, 2003).
